The affair realized about $35.

The mock parliament is conducted on the same lines as the Dominion parliament, each member being apportioned a seat in the house, the majority holding office and having their head as premier. A governor general, leader of the opposition, party whips and other functionaries necessary for conducting a parliament are appointed in due course. The idea of the institution is to supply matters for debates and assist the young men of the town in public speaking, at the same time giving them information in political matters and making them conversant with the routine of public affairs.

THE produce market is uncertain and variable in town as yet. Threshing is still in progress and no large quantity of grain can yet be brought in. Oats are quoted at 20c; barley from 20c to 30c for the best malting, wheat up to 53c, potatoes 20c to 25c a bushel. Other vegetables are so plentiful that a price can scarcely be quoted. Several cars of potatoes and oats have been shipped south, within the past couple of weeks.

THE brick work on the front of the Jacques Cartier bank which was suspended, awaiting the arrival of the finishing stones was commenced this morning, and is going ahead rapidly. Several of the stones are already in place and to the unpractical eye look exactly like the Calgary stone. It is quite as easy to dress as the Calgary stone. There is a prospect that Mr. Degagne the discoverer and proprietor of the quarry will do well out of it and that it will be a good thing for Edmonton as well.

TRAIN SERVICE.

The past three trains on the C. & E. line have been from two to three hours behind time. That this has been a serious inconvenience to travellers and will therefore tend to decrease travel over the road is plain to any one. Of course people who have to come to Edmonton find the railway a great convenience compared with travelling on foot or horse back or by stage, particularly those whose home is here. But the railway was not granted $80,000 a year cash bonus for twenty years, besides the usual immense land grant, merely to provide the people who reside in the country with improved facilities for getting out or in. The people of Canada granted this land and are paying this money expressly for the purpose of providing such facilities for travel and traffic as will make possible and induce increased settlement in the district and its general development. The country is paying for an adequate and convenient train service and should get it,—partly for the benefit of the people here, who pay well for the accommodation afforded them, and partly for the benefit of the whole country in the encouragement of the development of this, one of its most important parts. In these days of fast travel when the art and industry of man are taxed to the utmost to provide luxurious accommodation for the railway traveller a lack of the usual speed or the usual accommodation is not only objected to by the traveller but is taken as an indication that the travel and traffic to the point reached by the railway is not valuable, is not worth the usual accommodations, and therefore that the place to be reached is no good. On the other hand if the train service is prompt and the accommodation good it is a standing advertisement that the railway company think the travel worth cultivating and that there is business being done in the place reached. If it were a fact that the Edmonton district was going behind and that the road from Calgary north did not pay, the company might be excused for the present service. But when it is a notorious fact that the Edmonton country is going ahead as no other part of the Dominion is at present, that the Edmonton branch is paying as well as or better than any other part of the C. P. R. system—when indeed the slow and irregular time and poor accommodation for passenger travel is the direct result of the large business that is being done, for which the company does not choose to provide adequate or suitable facilities, it is about time to enquire as to what that $80,000 a year is being paid for, and if the stinginess of the company to a point that is doing well for them is to be allowed to act as a drag upon the further progress of the place, by turning away desirable travel.

THE TETE JAUNE CACHE.

When, on the 10th of September, Harry Anthony and J. Graham left Geo. Purches and Ben Wilson at Owl flat, about two days and a half journey from the Jasper House at the entrance to the Yellowhead pass, they started on a rough and tedious journey. Their objective point was the Tete Jaune Cache and their mission was one of exploration. Their path lay altogether in the mountains, upon a trail followed by the government survey party in 1872 and '73. Since then, trees have fallen across it and the posts have disappeared so that much difficulty was experienced in following it at all. In some places the valley affords pasturage for horses—on the flats or small prairies; but the most nutritive pasture is usually found higher up in the mountains. However, much of the feed has to be taken on the cayuses, as the pathway lies on rocky ledges past deep canons and pasturage can not be reckoned on. The distance travelled was about 125 miles, and occupied eight days. At Bull lake the waters divide towards the Pacific and the Arctic. Here the Fraser river takes its rise, and from here the valley through which it flows was taken. After leaving the divide, the Fraser canon commences and is very narrow until it opens out into what is known as the Tete Jaune Cache, a valley between eight and nine miles in width, through which winds the river. The peaks of the mountains are denuded of timber; but the valleys contain cedar, fir and soft maple trees. Here Mr. Anthony also found the wild red plum and berries of all kinds. The Tete Jaune cache was the wintering post of the government survey party in 1873, and three log buildings yet remain to show where the party wintered.

ed. The Fraser river becomes navigable for small crafts from here and is well known as a rich gold bearing river. Harry Anthony staid four days at the Tete Jaune and met the Smith party from Kamloops who were working the Bonanza mine, a mica claim of excellent quality. Mr. Anthony also laid out mica claims and returned with some excellent samples 18x22 as clear as glass. The Tete Jaune cache takes its name from Tete Jaune, a yellow haired half-breed, who started in the fall of the year to cross the mountains, an adventure which at the time was considered fool hardy and dangerous. Not having been travelled before, he cut his way through timber, and made the first trail by the banks of the Fraser until he camped in this large valley where he cached his winter furs and proceeded towards what is now Kamloops. The pass has ever since been called after him the Yellowhead pass while the spot where he cached his furs has retained to this day the name of Tete Jaune cache.

The ancient city of Babylon in the Holy Land is being excavated by American scientists, and 150 to 250 Arabs are continuously employed on the work. Dr. Hilprich is remaining at the museum of Constantinople at the request of the Turkish government to translate inscriptions and arrange the tablets, inscribed bowls and vases used 1000 to 4000 years before the birth of Christ. The religion, government, habits of life and to a great extent the customs of men who lived 4000 years before Christ are revealed by the inscriptions now being translated. The worship of one God (Bel) is more clearly known and the extent of his immense temple is now revealed. This temple is being laid bare and when finished will be the first temple of Bel ever systematically excavated. Its colossal walls containing 130 rooms have been veiled, also its altars, slaughter house, tablets and archives in stone. Of the 125 Babylonian Kings whose names and era are known, 80 were found described on tablets excavated by this American enterprise. STONY PLAIN.

McDiarmid & McLeod's and Stewart & Henderson's traction threshers are at work on Stony Plain. Wheat is turning out exceptionally well, both in quantity and quality, with many yields of over 40 bush to the acre reported. Mr. Madou had over 200 bushels from seven bushels grown. Several yields of over 50 bushels are reported. The rye, both fall and spring, grown by the German settlers also yielded well. Mr. Schrum had 100 bushels of fall rye from four bushels sown. He also had a small quantity of tall wheat. The grain is very large, but is somewhat shrunken. It was sown in August. Many of the German settlers prefer rye flour to wheat flour as they consider it more nourishing.

The school house for Stony Plain school district is completed and is a very good frame building, plastered inside. Three other school districts are in process of formation on the plain, Stony Plain west, Rosenthal and Warden.

London, Oct. 22.—It is admitted that the half-year just closed is the most disastrous ever experienced in the history of the Grand Trunk railway.

L. M. Fortier of the Immigration branch Department of the Interior, says that 4,000 people have gone into Edmonton district by rail this year irrespective of those by vehicle, of which the Department has no trace.

An order-in-council has been passed providing that the resolutions of the house of commons of last session with regard to the reserve of gold, which is to be retained in the treasury, dollar for dollar, when the note circulation exceeds twenty million dollars, shall be carried out, notwithstanding its omission through a clerical error from the act.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—D. D. Mann, the well known contractor, has returned from British Columbia. The object of his trip was to determine the best route for a railroad from a point on the Canadian Pacific to Barkerville, a distance of 280 miles in the heart of the Cariboo gold mining district. "Two miles up the south fork from Quenelle," said Mann, "is located the works of the Cariboo Hydraulic Mining Co. There are two properties said to be the richest gold mines ever discovered in America. These gentlemen have struck a bonanza. They already employ 250 men and have not got the works completed yet. As an experiment the water was recently turned on for thirty-seven hours continuously and at the end of that time the shining metal in the sluice boxes yielded over five thousand dollars."
